BookSafe

Book manager for iPhone, iPad and Apple Watch

PRESS INFORMATION

Version 1.7 · October 2026

Your library belongs to you.

BookSafe is a book manager for iPhone, iPad and Apple Watch: scan books by ISBN, track your reading, stay on top of series. What sets it apart from Goodreads and StoryGraph: no account, no tracking, no third-party servers. Data lives on the device and syncs only through the user's own private iCloud. Built by a family in southern Germany.

FIVE KEY FEATURES

Add books in seconds

Scan an ISBN — barcode or printed number. Title, author, cover, publisher automatically; CSV import from Goodreads.

From reading day to reading year

Daily page, reading sessions with a timer, statistics, a yearly challenge, a year in review as a film.

Wishlist, countdown and library loans

A widget counts down the days to release; loans remind you before they are due back.

Start from your wrist

Start a reading session on Apple Watch — even with no iPhone in range.

Series that finally add up

Volume numbers from several library catalogues — special volumes such as "book 8.5" included.

PRIVACY — THE FACTS

No account. No tracking.

No BookSafe servers — the library stays on the device

- No user account, no sign-up, no email address.
- No analytics SDK, no ad network, no third-party frameworks.
- Sync through Apple's CloudKit in the private iCloud — no developer access.
- Outgoing connections only for book metadata — carrying the ISBN, never a user identifier.
- Export any time as CSV or PDF.
- No in-app review prompt.

New in 1.7 (12 October 2026): two new film designs for Year in Review, "Clothbound" and "Almanac", each with its own song · tropes from publisher keywords · unread borrowed books first. All changes: booksafe.app/en/whats-new-1-7
A note for quoting: BookSafe is not "end-to-end encrypted", and as of 1.0 it is no longer "fully offline" either. The accurate phrasing is: no third-party servers, only your own private iCloud, works offline.
